Management vs Leadership

➤ Management:

- "Getting the right things done on time." – Dusty Rhoades
- HR and/or financial responsibility
- "Boss" usually means bad manager

➤ Leadership:

- Set the vision and goals
- Communicate constraints
- Decide how to achieve goals
- Align teams to goal and help clear obstacles

Ender's Game – A Little Background

- Humanity is threatened after two previous Bugger wars, and Earth is preparing for a third war.
- The brightest children are taken at age 7 to Battle School to learn how to become the next generation of soldiers.
- The story follows Andrew "Ender" Wiggin who is believed to be our last hope to lead our armies in the next Bugger war.
- Students start as launchies, then move into small armies to compete in games in the Battle Room.
- At Command School, Ender and his toon leaders use a simulation game to control fighter groups in mock battles.

1. The Enemy's Gate is Down

<http://conceptartworld.com/?p=28623>

1. The Enemy's Gate is Down

➤ From Ender's Game:

- In null gravity, orientation is what you choose.
- Travelling "under" stars was a problem for soldiers who kept the orientation of gravity in the hall.
- It's easier to "fall" toward your target.

➤ Lesson: Shift your perspective so that your goal is always clearly in front of you. Past perspectives can trap teams.

➤ Applied:

- Restate the goal at every meeting.
- Use the goal to challenge suggestions. "Will that help us achieve X goal?"
- Identify where past perspectives are hindering progress.

2. Learn Local Patterns and Customs

http://ansible.wikia.com/wiki/Ender's Game \(Movie\))

2. Learn Local Patterns and Customs

➤ From Ender's Game:

- Bunking position is used to show status
- Slang language patterns are used by students to break from the highly structured environment

➤ Lesson:

- Take time to learn "Tribal Knowledge", and use when appropriate

➤ Applied:

- All in a name: FRD vs BRD example
- Define when you will follow the pattern (buy in), or deliberately break the pattern (stimulate new thinking)
- Use stories to imply group membership

3. Know Your Team - Socrates

<http://www.realstylenetwork.com/celebrities/2013/11/enders-game-is-a-thought-provoking-ride/>

3. Know Your Team - Socrates

➤ From Ender's Game:

- Dragon Army was all untrained launchies
- Ender sorted, tiered training, used peer support, and identified special skills

➤ Lesson:

- Create an environment where everyone contributes to the end goal.

➤ Applied:

- What would success look like? How would people behave?
- Make it personal; look beyond the role
- Lead by example, always

4. Trust Your Team Leads

<http://www.screeninsults.com/enders-game.php>

4. Trust Your Team Leads

➤ From Ender's Game:

- Traditional teams followed instructions of commander
- Instead of 4 toons of 10 soldiers, Ender created 5 split toons, giving him 10 autonomous units of 4 soldiers each
- Ender structured simulator battles by blending group coordination with localized decisions

➤ Lesson:

- Think globally, act locally.

➤ Applied:

- Constantly realign group focus, teams, and priorities based on changing conditions
- Use team leads to execute plans in each area
- Create a cross-functional team to evaluate work and find innovative solutions

5. Formations vs Guerrilla Tactics

<http://collider.com/enders-game-review/>

5. Formations vs Guerrilla Tactics

➤ From Ender's Game:

- Traditional armies couldn't adapt to Ender's 5/10 independent units making immediate decisions
- Against the Buggers, Ender created a hybrid approach taking the best of one "hive" mind with localized decisions
- Formations work best when facing overwhelming odds

➤ Lesson:

- Too much structure limits performance and adaptability

➤ Applied:

- Teams must have enough structure to remain aligned to a common goal
- Structure can help overcome external chaos
- Repeat what works, try new things

6. Reactionary vs Proactive Leadership

<http://collider.com/enders-game-review/>

6. Reactionary vs Proactive Leadership

➤ From Ender's Game:

- Example: Battling two armies blindly
- Example: Simulator groups Alai vs Bean
- Ender saw that traditional training produced predictable armies that could be easily defeated

➤ Lesson:

- Don't build a team with processes for every problem, rather build a team that will adapt and overcome.

➤ Applied:

- Do you prioritize your day from your inbox?
- Start every meeting with the meeting outcome
- Try mental role playing prior to conflict encounters

7. Over Utilizing Your “A Team”

http://ender.wikia.com/wiki/Petra_Arkanian

7. Over Utilizing Your “A Team”

➤ From Ender’s Game:

- Example: Petra and the nearly lost battle
- Example: Rotating squad leaders during battles

➤ Lesson:

- Sometimes the best person for the task isn’t the best person for the task.

➤ Applied:

- Star contributors can throttle work and reduce team productivity
- Promote delegation of lower tasks and encourage mentoring
- The best leaders are master delegators

8. Bonus – The Loneliness of Leadership

<http://blog.acton.org/archives/62058-enders-game-and-neo-malthusianism.html>

8. Bonus – The Loneliness of Leadership

➤ From Ender's Game:

- Ender discovers he isn't part of social group anymore
- Team keeps expecting Ender to find a way to win, but he has no one to turn to

➤ Lesson:

- Teams must bond outside of their leadership.

➤ Applied:

- Give your teams time to trash talk and complain
- Limit your social time with the groups
- A leader is just outside the friend zone
